

KEVIN NGUYEN

"To assist those who assist the Kingdom" - that's Kevin Nguyen's personal life mission statement. Before pursuing a PhD in Education & Leadership at Biola University, Nguyen's career has predominantly been in corporate management at Fortune 500 companies. Investing over a decade in marketing and strategizing for companies that were not Kingdom minded, God placed it on his heart to dedicate all of his talents, strengths, and resources in impacting those who were serious Kingdom movers and shakers. Hence, he resigned from corporate America in 2009.

Since then, God's calling has led Nguyen into two unique areas for expanded influence on the next generation of leaders. He has walked out his personal passion for leadership development at world-renowned faith-based, non-profit organizations of Saddleback Church and Mariners Church, serving on the executive leadership team with oversight in guest assimilations, talent development & mobilization, and expansion. In addition, Nguyen is also part of the faculty at several higher education institutions teaching graduate students in organizational leadership and people development.

Nguyen currently serves as executive director for Visually Linked Bible (VLB), an organization that creates immersive experiences whose main mission is to help the next generation become interested in the Bible through the use of VR technology.

With an endeavor to create high quality and family-friendly projects, VLB has partnered with Virtuous VR Gaming to release its debut game "DvG: Conquering Giants" - a reimagined immersive experience based on one of history's greatest duels (David vs Goliath). Armed with a unique, powerful sling, gamers will fend off ravenous wolves, ferocious lions and massive bears before battling the giant himself (Goliath). "DvG" will be available to consumers November 2020.

A Vietnamese-Texan who loves sports, food (BBQ and Pho), video and board games, Nguyen grew up in Dallas, TX where God's football team plays. He and his wife, Hannah have been married since June 2004, and were wonderfully blessed with a son in 2010 (Khoi Ethan-Josiah) and a baby girl in 2019 (Dallas Kate).
